Our School, Peter ———

and those who supervised, directed and molded our life during our precious four years there.

Our Campus

WHETHER it be when golden angles of October sunlight slant down over walks crisp and yellow with leaves from the poplar trees, or when pink Rose of Sharon bushes are blossoming along Goodman's fence in Spring, Holy Name campus can never fail to elicit happy memories.

Most Reverend Edward F. Hoban, S.T.D., LL.D.

Bishop of Cleveland

Our Pastor

SUCCESS at Holy Name is offered in many ways and comes from many sources. Much of it, however, is due to the friendship, interest, and loyalty of our pastor, Father Charles McDonough, who himself contributes so large a portion of what our Alma Mater means to us.

We can rely on Father McDonough as a friend.

Our Principal

Exemplar of moral and spiritual courage is our principal, Sister Rosario. Through our high school years, Sister has been a major influence in our Catholic lives. Her co-operation in our educational program has made possible many additional means of obtaining a complete training: physical, mental and moral.

Our Catholic success is her interest.

Our Teachers, Sisters of Charity

WITHOUT the Sisters, there would be no Holy Name. They are experienced, understanding guides and instructors, wise with the wisdom of the Holy Spirit. They teach us and mother us, encourage us and scold us, pray for us and love us.

The Sisters—God bless them!

At the Elementary School

THE Sisters of Charity teach at the Elementary School two blocks down from the High School.

At present 12 Sisters are busy making rabid little Holy Namers of some 850 small fry.

BESIDES the regular faculty of Sisters of Charity, the Elementary School boasts of three lay teachers: Catherine Byrne, Alice Deir, and Mary Joyce. With the regular faculty they attempt to instill in the minds of young Namers the principles for which Holy Name stands: Loyalty to God and country and loyalty and love for the school.

Our lay faculty

OUR Alma Mater, in the year of Our Lord, 1948, laid claim not only to 28 Sisters, but to eight lay teachers as well.

That is, it used to lay claim to eight lay teachers. Then Danny pulled out, abandoning his sociology classes, and leaving a huge hole where the head coach once stood.

The average Holy Namer might be surprised if we told him that of the remaining seven lay teachers, only two were men! Ed Moderick, who until September, '47, dragged his frame around Garfield High, was now dragging that same frame in and out of several speech and sociology classes in Newburgh, and Steve Polachek, physical ed teacher for Uncle Whiskers during the War, began tracking up our gym. The boys' gym that is.

Doping out a new play? Coaches Ed Moderick, Steve Polachek, and Dan Mormile.

Mrs. Collingwood, Miss O'Leary, Miss Prechtl, Mrs. Seitz. (Not yet on the staff when the picture was taken was Miss Joan Murphy, Mr. Mormile's successor in civics class.)

IF that same average Namer ever got into the girls' gym class, he'd probably find that the person putting him out was another newcomer, Miss Eileen O'Leary, whose first year as HNS girls' physical ed instructor was as successful a year as Miss Jacqueline Prechtl's. Miss Prechtl spent most of her time pounding math into Freshie and Soph heads.

Lastly, there were our two old standbys, our veterans: Mrs. Robert Collingwood, office secretary, and Mrs. Ruth Seitz, seventh grade teacher.

Our Queen and Our Mother

OF Her we have asked much and received much. She has guided us every step of the way throughout our school years. We turned to Her when Latin translations seemed hard to handle, when examination week came, when we wanted that important date for the prom, and especially when we wanted Her assistance in directing our lives to our eternal goal.

And when Seniors were given the privilege of dedicating the '48 annual, they decided that The Namer should formally be given to Our Lady in appreciation for Her never-ending help.

So, dear Blessed Mother, we humbly leave our "Portfolio for Peter" in your Hands.

Our Schoolmates, Peter:

They warmed our school life with their friendship.

We chose student leaders well,—

STICKING another feather of accomplishment in their caps, the Class of '48 reinstated the Student Council early in the year. Headed by Ray Evans as its president, Jerry Wahl, vice president, and Charlotte Camille, secretary, the Council introduced itself by sponsoring a gala Halloween Dance in the Gym.

The year's meetings were devoted in large part to talking over the problems necessarily coincident on the reorganizing of such a group, and resulted in the writing of a Constitution, copies of which were distributed to the homerooms in March.

they were A1

Leadership in the homeroom, and its representation in the Student Council were the prime responsibility of the five Senior room presidents. All of them Namers with an abounding spirit, their voices had weight in the Council, and their experience in key positions throughout underclass years stood them in good stead in directing HN affairs for their respective Senior groups. A tip of the hat to Senior prexies!

Meriting top positions in the school are: Joseph McMahon, Richard Kilfoyle, Frank Sever, Robert Hearns, Ray Evans, Senior presidents.

Guidance of the underclassmen was up to these 14 able class presidents. By cooperating with homeroom teachers and classmates in keeping homeroom projects running smoothly they earned the confidence accorded them by ballot at the beginning of the school year.

At Council meetings the suggestions and support of homeroom leaders were a welcome aid in planning a better Holy Name.

Nice group, eh, Peter? My class!

Another Class—another year,
A twisted smile—a salty tear;
A last good-bye to '48,
It's been great fun—now graduate!

Rudy Kipple

WITH this tender quatrain, Holy Name bids "Av Wah" to the graduates. Already the Senior homeroom nuns—Sisters Rose Alma, Marie John, Owen Marie, Angela Mary, and Mary Robert, are cleaning out their desks. They're finished—you don't belong anymore. You are Alumni—part of the past. All that remains for you is reflections. Memories of that Halloween Dance, and of the first Christmas Ball; the revival of the Student Council, beating Latin—and all the rest. Yeh, you've had a good year, you've been a swell class. We wish you lots of luck.

The Orchestra, an underclass activity.

Look, 850 dyed-in-the-wool Namers

HOLY NAME owes a lot to its underclassmen. They accomplished wonders. The Juniors, under the capable direction of Sisters Mary Bernice, Jerome, Rita Agnes, Concepta, and Rita Cascia, sponsored a wonderful Prom which gave the Seniors a night they'll always remember. Juniors, too, were responsible for the spirited rally in honor of Father McMahon's Silver Jubilee, and Juniors of 303 Carroll won the special Mission pennant. Surely a class like this will be able to fill the Seniors' boots next year!

The Sophomore class might well boast of Joe Ziccardi, grid star, and its other members of Varsity and Junior Varsity teams. The Sophomore Glee Club, too, was outstanding in its excellent contribution to the Music Festival in honor of St. Cecelia. Sisters Rita Clare, Julia Loretta, Mary Linus, and Jane can be very proud of their pupils, who did so well in studies, athletics, and social affairs here at Holy Name, under their capable guidance.

Our dear Little Freshies, although they came to our Alma Mater seeming very timid and shy, proved that they could acquire the title of Namers, and be well deserving of that honor. They won their accolade by peppy rallies, and by their wonderful Frosh basketball team. They were good sports, too, to be able to take the teasing of upperclassmen for nearly a year. Sisters Mary Edward, Helen Maria, Mary Walter, Elizabeth Louise, and Annina can rejoice in them.

Last, but by no means least, the Junior High. Under the coaching of Father Moran, they won championships in both football and basketball, showing us that in the year 1952 we could look for a football team that would play in the Charity Game, and a basketball team that would win the Senate championship. Teachers? Sisters Albertus, Edward Marie, Ann Michael and Anniceta, and Mrs. Seitz. Grade VIII displayed unusual musical talent, too, in the Christmas operetta, presented by Junior High warblers.

II. Charles Duffy, Richard Evans, Dagmar Fidler, William Ginley, Rita Grabowski, Jim Hopkins, Evelyn Humrick, Michael Karn, Patricia Kilbane.

Broadway Grades provided rooters

HOLY Name in '48 could point with pride to a group of snappy rooters who were deep down Holy Namers from their toes to their three feet of height.

Elementary students at Broadway followed the Big Green Varsity team with loyalty and spirit: from their chapel and classroom grandstands they were behind the football bleachers at every fray. Before every game during football season young Namers kept a vigil in St. Charles Chapel, praying that our team would come home victorious.

Besides bringing spirit to the high school, littlest Little Davids who were once angelic Choir boys become fine Glee Club members at 8318; those who were quiz kids became future scholarship students; many who were faithful altar boys found their vocation fructify, leading them to become priests of God.

Our Classes, Peter:

They kept our school life interesting and busy.

SISTER ANGELA MARY, physics instructor, led 60 of us students through numerous practical experiments.

Perhaps our work would seem elementary to you, Peter, but we tested the principles which led to your discoveries. Besides, we became pleasantly involved in such domestic problems as why a doorbell rings, or why one sees lightning before there's thunder.

Science taught us the "why"

GENERAL science was rated tops among Holy Name Freshmen in '48. Under the able direction of Sister Mary Walter and Sister Mary Edward, 210 students studied the human body, the universe, and the weather.

Namers were always welcome to enter the Laboratory and peer into the mysteries of radar, atomic energy, and television, which students of '48 understand so well.

Fashioning pinhole cameras was the main project for the first semester, while the making of booklets on the human body, and posters on food and diets ate up the remaining days.

Displaying their planetarium, used for the study of seasons, are Martin Heckman and Cecilia Ali.

HOME of fumes, flares, and flames was the Chemistry Lab at Holy Name, under the supervision of Sister Mary Robert. Some 90 followers of the popular science sought for the discovery of the then unknown elements. Major activity of the year was the combined display of chemical projects, featuring such exhibits as the two soap displays, by First Prize Winners Casimir Kotowski and Jerry Wahl.

Deeply involved in the process of the electrolysis of water are Richard Stironek, James Coughlin, and Josephine Termini.

behind material mysteries

HOLY NAME was proud of its science laboratories in '48, among others, the Biology Lab, located in 205C, supervised by Sister Jerome.

Students worked easily in class with the aid of modern equipment, like the Seascope, that did the work of at least 20 microscopes. An entire class could study living organisms, blood circulation, heart beat, and conjugation in one-celled animals with the device.

Highlight of the year came when Sister Jerome typed each student's blood and took a blood count for several.

Three future biologists sneak a birds-eye view of blood corpuscles, while other members of the class are absorbed in their new Seascope.

Mechanical drawing, mathematics

Michael Krol (left) and Alexander Gurgol check a pattern in sheet metal drafting, one of the many draftings that are required in mechanical drawing classes.

JUNIOR and Senior boys with a knack for putting facts into figures, decided that mechanical drawing was the course for them, even though it meant double periods. So they dived in, to be instructed in the basis for engineering, supervised by Sisters Rita Clare and Angela Mary.

It took more than just drawing, however, to come out on top in the course, just as it took more than luck to star in math classes. Sister Rita Agnes' solid geometry, for example, required plenty of hard work and clear thinking.

The 15 "brains" labored vigorously in broadening their knowledge of Math IV, concentrating on dihedral and trihedral angles, parallelepipeds, and the measuring of spherical surfaces.

Discovering that if two lines are perpendicular to the same line they are parallel, is Martin Mangan, while Mary McNulty, Robert Kickel, Robert Poutz, and Frank Sever examine geometric figures in Math IV.

demanded accuracy, real thinking

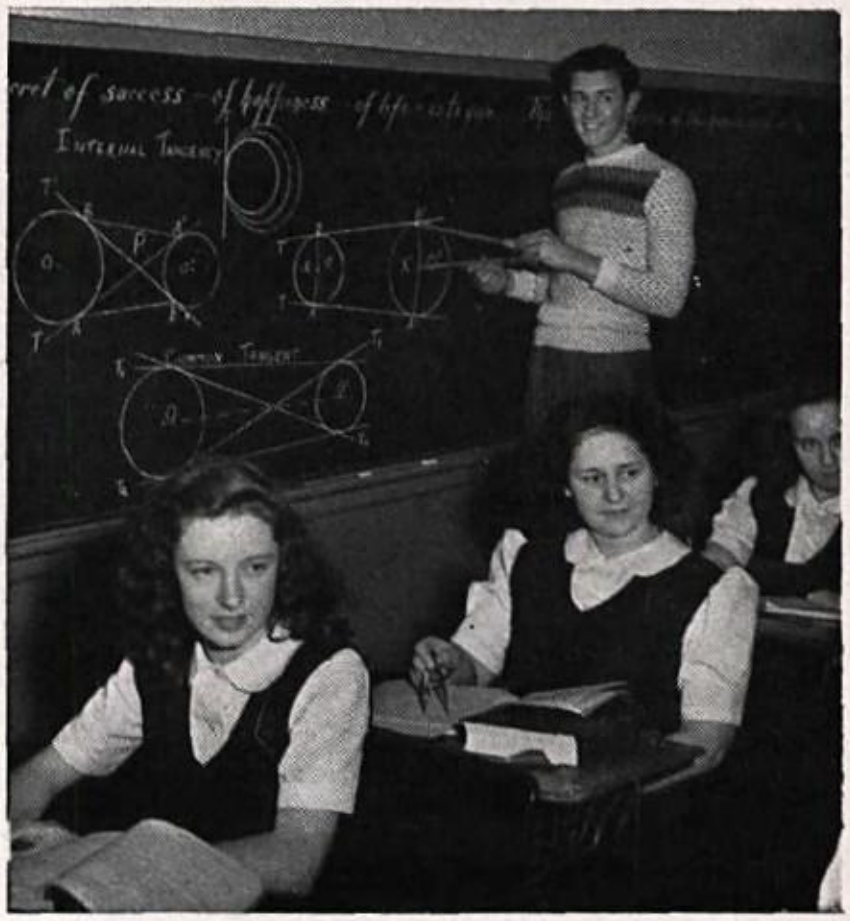
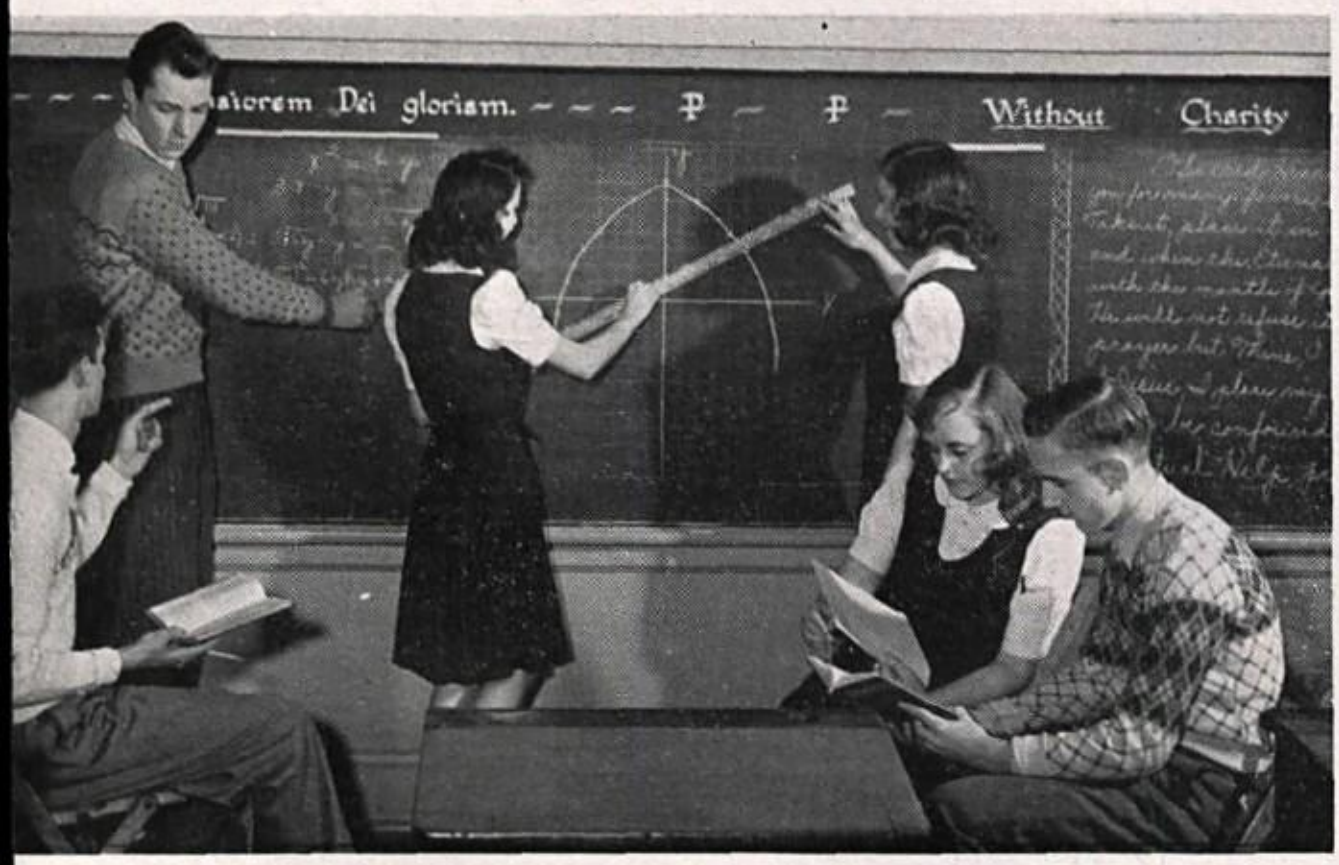
IT was Sister Jane and Miss Prechtl who were responsible for putting our lax brain cells to work by assigning extra-credit geometry problems and requiring semester workbooks. Hard? Why, sure, but you can never regret it when you've acquired something for life.

In advanced algebra, it was Sister Rita Agnes who coached a team of ambitious Juniors on their way towards a major in math. Although frequently she was obliged to virtually pound the principles of graphing and factoring into our listless skulls, Sister succeeded in presenting the algebraic formulas in such a way as to make the study actually enjoyable.



Distracted from John Klecan's explanation of tangent circles are Rosemary Mullaney, Eileen O'Brien, and Patricia Fagan (down the aisle).



Robert Hronek directs Thomas Cook, Marion Chinnock, and Shirley Leir in the graphing of equations while Narda Manley and James McGill check their texts.

Typing, shorthand, bookkeeping

SUCCESSFUL business men and women were trained to be just that in the various commercial classes at Holy Name. A debt of gratitude is owed to Sister Marie Concepta and Sister Rose Alma by the business world for the competent stenographers, secretaries, and typists they gave it.

It was the same routine every day. Students filing in and out period after period into the newly-equipped Room 106, to clatter out their assignments on the typewriters. Beginners as well as advanced students banged out the tinny tunes. And in Sister Rose Alma's classes there were some outstanding boy typists; so as you can see, some at least were looking forward to white collar jobs.

From noisy typewriters to the mysteries of shorthand went scores of Namers, under the careful eye of Sister Marie Concepta. After this extensive course, the girls were more than ready to answer the ads where dictation was needed.

Another favorite commercial subject with Namers was bookkeeping, also taught by Sister Marie Concepta. As one student explained, "It taught students how to figure out complicated credits and debits and still remain on their balance."

...repared us for jobs in June

Seamstresses produced chic wardrobes

WHIRLING ballerina skirts, sophisticated Easter suits, dainty Gibson blouses, beruffled formals, all these were fashioned in the Sewing Room by Sister Henry Miriam's young seamstresses, delighted and half surprised at their own ability.

At the annual Style Show the 60 girls in the group promenaded among the tables to dreamy waltz music provided by the Junior High Orchestra. Each girl modeled at least two garments, all beautifully finished and perfectly fitted, chic as anything on Fifth Avenue.

Cooks weighed nutrition, budgets

Putting the finishing touches to his batch of canned preserves is Chef William McCartney.

CHEFS and restaurant men in the making were the 25 boys enrolled in Sister Henry Miriam's cooking and foods classes in the shiney, newly-furnished kitchen in Portable 1.

The young gentlemen baked fruit cake and pie, roasted meat, and fried potatoes.

And they loved it!

DAINTY in plastic aprons and with trim bands to keep their locks back, Holy Name girls chatted quietly over their white gas ranges in the Home Economics kitchen. By keeping their file cases of menus up-to-date and practicing economical ways, they shortly learned the easiest way to a man's heart.

An activity of the year was to prepare and serve the refreshments at the Style Show, given by the sewing classes.

To Victoria, Vincent & Co.

IF the memories we cherished most are kept fresh in our yearbook, The Namer, it is to Editor-in-Chief Victoria Bodziony, more than anyone else perhaps, that we owe a "Thank you!"

Vicky (right) could do anything. She taught us the value of hard work in meeting deadlines, and furnished us with some good laughs.

Victoria is a person we could never forget; memories of her loyalty and cooperation still lie in The Namer we have tucked away.

Editor-in-Chief

Name's financiers.

A GOOD mathematician? You bet. He had to be; for the Business Manager of the Name and the Namer, Vincent Balogh, (left of picture) had a big job to do, in keeping the books straight for the journalistic productions of Holy Name. Sports Editor Kevin Birt (right) gave him a helping hand when work piled up.

we owed our '48 Yearbook

IN Congress, the bill for celebrating March first as a national holiday was downed, and the people on the Namer staff were depressed, for they figured that they should share their joy in meeting the Annual deadline with everyone in the nation: it had taken hard work and plenty of their playtime to develop the bare-bones of the dummy into a blossoming yearbook!

(Bottom) Soon after the Annual went to press the girls on the small pictures section were modeling eyeglasses. With the help of Cynthia Ratajcsak, religion section, (second from left) the girls are pictured in their early days of pasting (they were smiling then): Agnes Predovich, Mary Ann Davik, LaVerne Barna, and Bernice Yanak.

All-Catholic, All-American,

PLAYING a vital part in the memories of all Namers is the school paper, The Name.

A consistent taker of state and national press awards, and winner of the coveted All-American Journalism Honor Certificate in 1947, The Name can blame its rampant romp to glory in 1948 in large measure on its co-editors, Arlene Kubinski and Anthony Zepp.

(Right) Anthony and Arlene leave for Hotel Statler to attend the N. S. P. A. Convention.

All-Namer!

WITHOUT the Page Editors there wouldn't have been a Name. They planned pages, assigned stories, measured copy, and checked names.

With the frequent help of Staff Room rations, these journalistic tyros got their pages off to the printer on time, and seemed to thrive on the job. At least, they came up smiling!

"THE pen is mightier than the sword," so Bob Chadwick (left) and his companion, John McCawley, strove earnestly towards their goal of becoming Atlas' by developing writer's cramp.

(Middle) When the Name came out, fingers flew through the pages in quest of a story by Bill Murray. Scanning press magazines with Bill is Mary Catherine O'Donnell, the girl whose task it was to have Holy Name represented in the Universe Bulletin's school column.

(Bottom right) Racked brains and warped pencils (at times it was just the reverse) caused by meeting deadlines, made injections of vitamins necessary, and the Staff was fortunate in having such cooks as Rosemary Kalina, Eileen Telzrow, and Bernice Yokel (left to right).

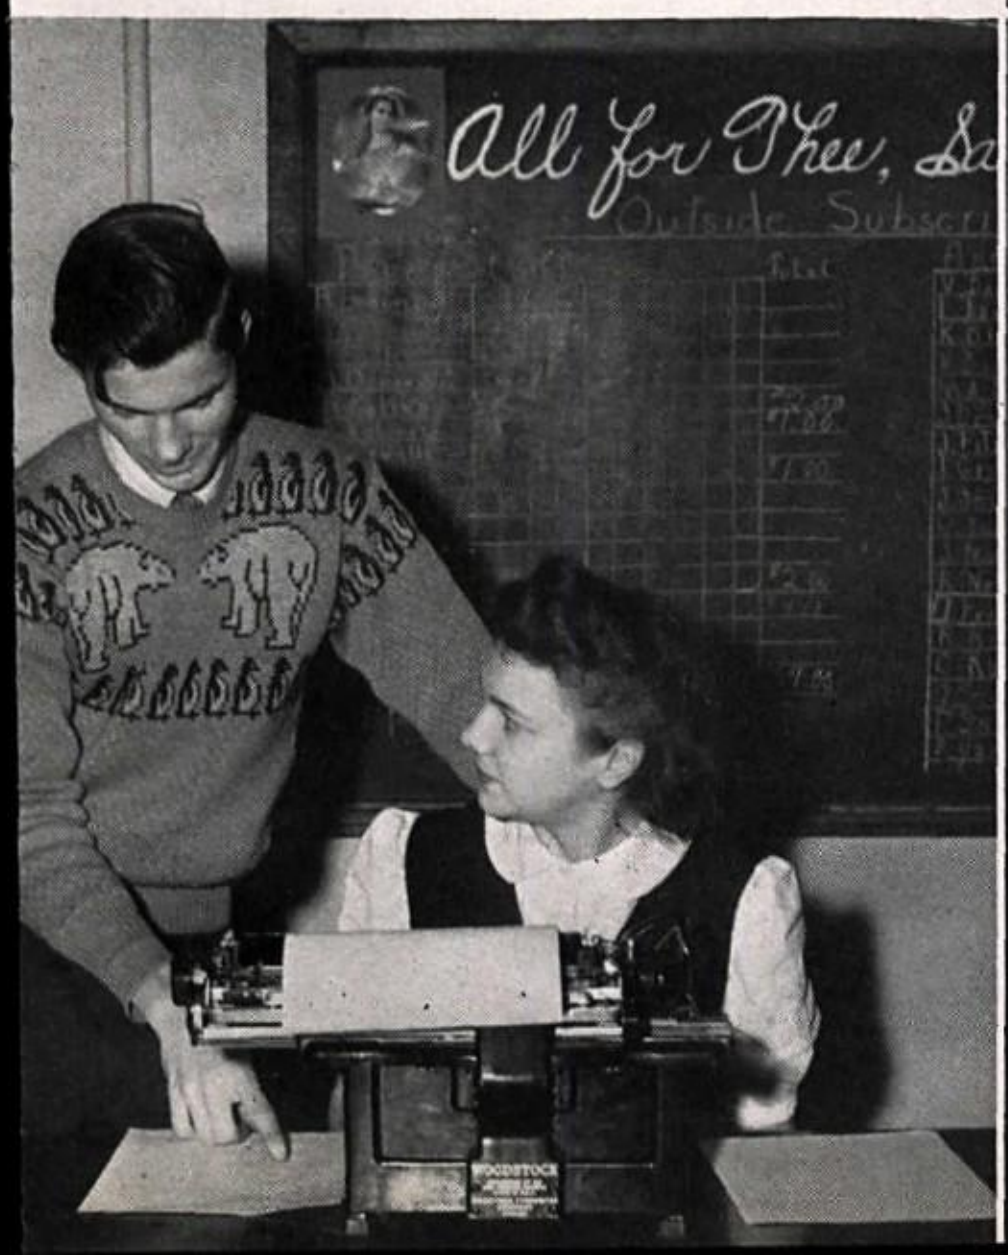
(Bottom left) When last minute typing was to be done, and a feller needed a friend to do it, we yelled for Margaret Domanski; when folks asked who helped make the sports page the best in the city, we introduced Jimmy Cullen.



A HAVEN of peace and refinement amid the rush and clatter of a busy high school would be the best way in which Scullen Library could be defined. One of the most pleasant and completely-equipped scholastic libraries in Ohio, it was open to us Namers all day long, and the 5,189 books nestled in the rows of shelves were borrowed and reborrowed daily by students.

Biography and fiction, reference books and vocational guidance, dozens of pamphlets and 91 different magazines all were ours for the asking.

Everyone who entered was greeted by a courteous "Can I help you?" from Sister Thomas Aquinas, in charge of keeping the rapidly growing collection intact. An average of 54 books was borrowed daily, and countless calls were made on Sister for bits of information for classes.

Food for hungry minds

Gifted fingers

THE art pupils did more than just splash paint on one another's uniforms. They quietly accomplished one big project after another, with Sister Elizabeth Louise to show them how it was to be done.

The group learned to letter, and turned out beautiful hand-lettered Christmas Gospels for their mothers. They learned the technique of mask-making, from which they produced weird and comic faces. Dolores Yako succeeded in creating one that even Sister was proud of.

More advanced students got a taste of commercial art by entering striking original posters in such contests as the Plain Dealer Charity Game, and the Garden Show Poster Contests. Full credit was given for the daily double period in art.

Small-fry da Vincis also had a chance at the canvas in weekly classes for Grades VII and VIII. These Junior High School artists correlated art with religion, history, and literature lessons, through murals which covered their blackboards in the Gallagher Building.

Bottom: On sunny days, aspiring young artists perched on the fire escape and sketched outdoor scenes.

Michael McCaffrey admires Rita Ilhardt's diorama, constructed for Chaucer's "Knight's Tale."

DRAMATIZATIONS, choric readings, art work, and a score of projects enlivened literature classes daily for 1,000 Namers.

In days when the public press was liable to be a subtle instrument of the rising Red Terror, literature classes were oriented not only toward an appreciation of "the good, the true, and the beautiful," but toward the ability to detect and gainsay fallacy and propaganda.

Grammar, literature,

AS radio programs were substituted for reading, and comics and advertisements popularized incorrect spellings and vulgarisms, grammar teachers verged on despair at their lot. Consequently, at Holy Name Freshmen spent hours on syntax, Sophomores diagrammed sentences by the boardful, Juniors and Seniors got regular doses of Tressler, and Latin classes duplicated all of it. Among the valiant teachers who fought against such odds were Sisters Mary Linus, Rita Cascia, Annina, Mary Bernice, and Maria John.

Diagramming a sentence for the class in the good old-fashioned way is Sophomore Shirley Pender.

IN World History and American History, Holy Name had courses in which the great events of ages past came to light, and since history repeats itself, many pupils determined their views on the news of the day by these classes. Teachers helping them along were Sisters Owen Marie and Mary Lorenzo.

Since the world was being torn asunder in '48, World Geography seemed useless, but with Sister Julia Loretta as tutor, the class learned the geographic theories which account for so many political phenomena.

social sciences

STUDENTS in neighboring schools admitted that they considered civics and sociology a bore. At Holy Name, however, these classes, directed by three Alumni, Mr. Ed Moderick, Mr. Danny Mormile, and Miss Joanne Murphy, were interesting and fact-packed.

In the first semester the make-up of the American system of government was explained; during the last half-year, in sociology, we reviewed Catholic attitudes toward man's social duties in preparation for our serious encounter with the world after graduation.

The "Pepsodent kids" in Civics V listen attentively to Miss Murphy.

We knew our Democracy needed

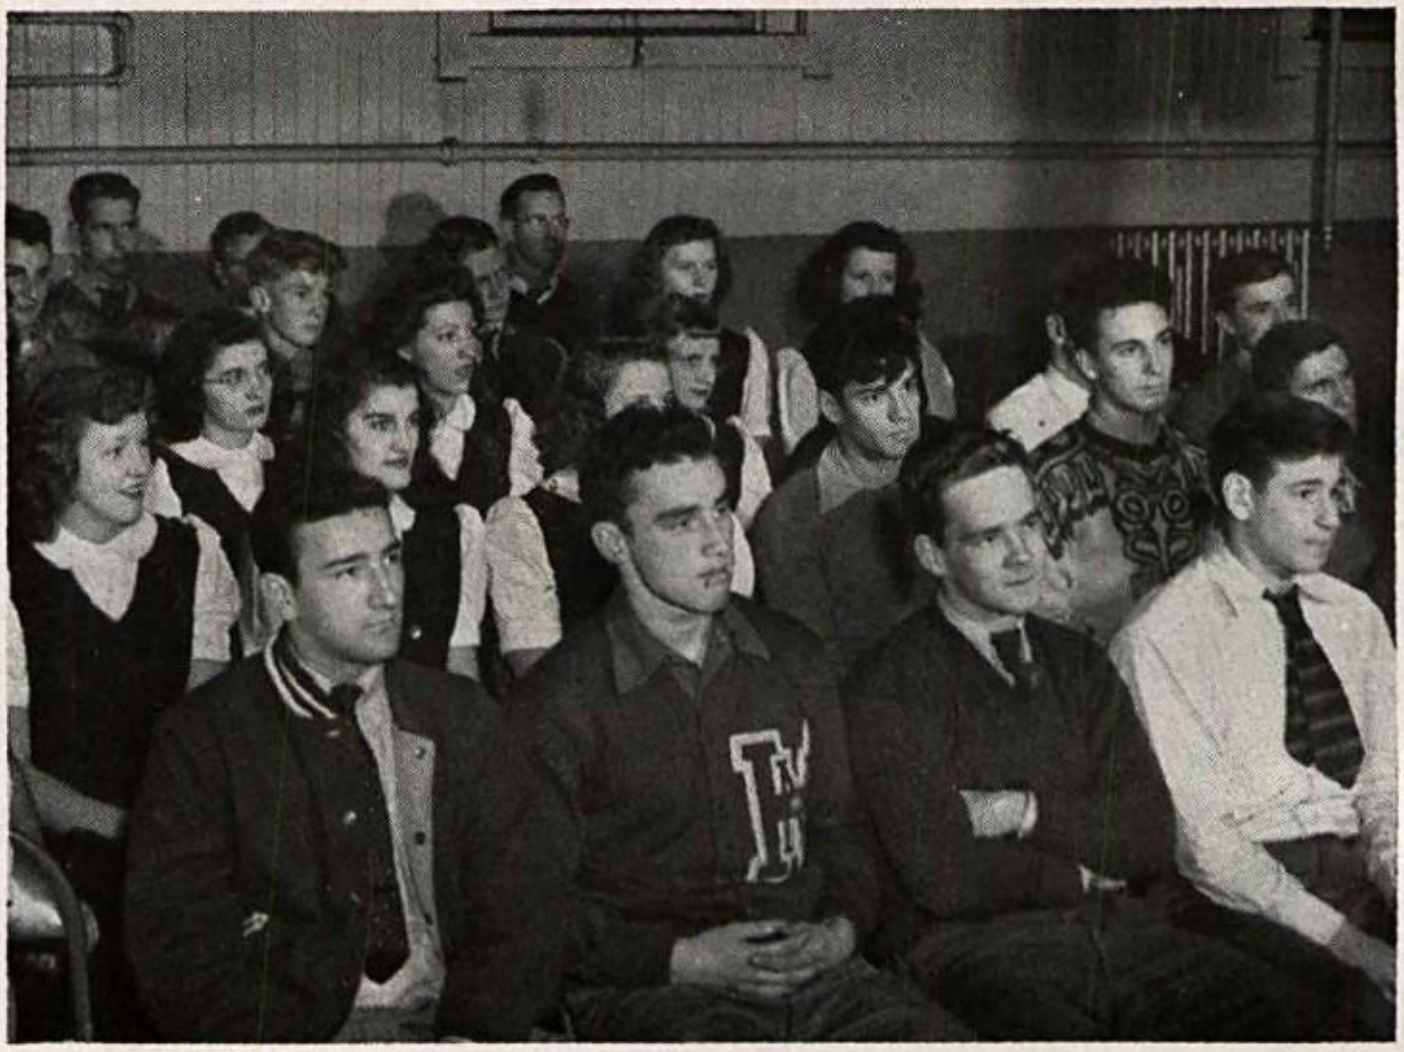
THOUGH the students who listened attentively to Mr. Moderick during his speech classes, didn't attempt to talk with pebbles in their mouths, they did improve their lingo. By following assignments, they soon showed improvement and acquired that virtue so highly recommended by Father McMahon, "Confidence."



Looking serious and really interested is one of Mr. Moderick's three speech classes.

EVEN outside of regular speech classes, Namers were given the opportunity to exercise their elocutionary powers by participation in class meetings and by that highly-unpopular pastime known as "floor talks."

"There's no better experience than getting up on your two feet and holding the attention of a group," declared our mentors. And so . . . we did!

Catholic leaders who could talk

Not Cicero, not Caesar, nor Webster, but our own A. J. Felix, delivering one of his oratorical works.

MAKING a practical application of Mr. Moderick's tenets were the dozen Namers who, during the year, appeared on radio programs. No "ums" and "ahs" when local boys took to the air waves, either.

Among others whose dulcet tones charmed vast radio audiences were Ronie Inteso, Tom Lanigan, Ray Evans, Jim Cullen, and Ray Lavelle.

A FORM of public speaking seemingly peculiar to the '48 Freshmen was choric reading, some fine examples of which they treated us to at rallies. "The 'bashfulest' tend to lose self-consciousness when they perform in a crowd," Sister Helen Maria, choric enthusiast, explained.

Freshie lecturers emphasize a point in one of their recitations.

PROOF positive of Namers' achievements in the field of music was the opportunity afforded four Glee Club members to sing in the National Catholic Chorus in Detroit. Ray Evans, Senior; Henry Kowalski, John Burke, Juniors; and Fred Wright, Sophomore, were the lucky fellows chosen for their ability and interest in choral works by Sister Loretta Marie.

Numerous hospitals gratefully acknowledged the Glee Clubs' splendid work of caroling for the infirm during the Christmas season. Perhaps they cannot boast of any miraculous recoveries attributed to their warbling, but the 95 Freshmen, 45 Sophomores, and 73 Juniors and Seniors composing the Glee Clubs can say with pride that they brought Christmas cheer to the sick.

AS a fitting climax to a year made cheery by their efforts, Holy Name's Senior and Sophomore Glee Clubs presented, in May, "Words and Music," an operetta in two acts.

Tryouts began early in December and finally, after careful selection, melodious Ruth Cisar and talented Rosemary Kane were chosen to perform the feminine leads. Dynamic Ray Evans (the fellow with a finger in every pie) won the coveted role of the singing hero.

Then began the grueling task of practicing, of memorizing lines and planning stage settings. Day after day the Glee Clubs worked to turn sour notes into sweet harmony and to change unfamiliar music into lilting melodies.

Finally the big day arrived. Namers, parents and friends eagerly crowded into the auditorium to witness the gala show. And needless to say it was a success, for how could any activity fail when it's a Holy Name project?

Ray Evans serenades his operetta lead, Ruth Cisar, with "I'll Sing My Love to You."

About the Orchestra

Deft fingers of Louise Purpura, Mary Archer, and Phyllis Cimina, orchestra members, draw sweet music from their violins.

STARTING with a handful of students, a few instruments and a lot of pep and zeal, Sister Loretta Marie began her orchestra two years ago. An almost impossible feat had to be accomplished and work was begun immediately. With borrowed violins, flutes and other instruments of the string, bass and woodwind sections, pupils met twice a week and practiced diligently.

Slowly the vision became a reality and Holy Name's orchestra made its debut.

Today the orchestra is already a long way from those few students. Composed of 38 players ranging from Grades VII to X, the group entertained at musical festivals, operettas and other Holy Name affairs. To Sister Loretta Marie, director, it means a dream comes true.

Class dramas unearthed talent

REALIZING that most students rebel at the thought of dry conjugations and boring translations, of balancing formulas and solving complicated problems, the Sisters attempted to make their classes interesting by varying the program with debates, skits, amusing stories, projects, reports and dramatic presentations.

Ordinary Joe became dashing Don Jose, every-day Janey was magically transformed into romantic Senorita Juanita, meek little Johnny followed a bloody dagger as MacBeth, and commonplace Bob found that by merely raising his voice in loud oration he was changed into loquacious Congressman Smith.

Not only did this produce a diversion in the daily grind, but it enabled Namers to enjoy themselves as they soaked up knowledge.

With the aplomb of a Spanish Grandee, Jim Hopkins gallantly serenades Mary Lou Basel in a playlet.

Dances . . . parties . . .

INFORMAL Victory dances highlighted the football season -- Tuesday night get-togethers which offered a fine way to celebrate each successive grid victory.

A Halloween special, October 31, was the Student Council's first big project. Goblins, ghosts and cider topped off an evening of merriment and one of the best dances of the year.

VARSITY letters were awarded when the football team and all those who worked on or with the team celebrated at the Athletic Banquet at Hotel Carter's Rainbow Room, December third.

dates at the First Senior Christmas Ball, December 27.

banquets . . . balls . . .

Gridiron battles and spirited rivalries were forgotten at the Annual Military Ball, January 10, when Holy Name, Benedictine, St. Ignatius band members and their dates danced and had fun together in Benedictine's Auditorium.

Other red-letter days also spotlighted Holy Name's calendar. Monthly Galley Slave excursions brought relief to weary writers. Servers and class groups left books in school and cut capers at invigorating picnics. Parties for orphans, the infirm and aged, kept Seton Leaguers busy, and h o m e r o o m celebrations topped social activities at Christmas.

Galley Slaves relax after a hectic deadline rush.

Anthony Marino and Jim Cullen combine talents to entertain on the St. Patrick's program.

Programs . . .

"OH! a little bit of heaven fell," and landed smack on the Kelly green tongues of Holy Namers. That good old Irish brogue suddenly became so thick it almost brought the Shamrocks sprouting out of the campus black top, and strains of "Danny Boy" and "Mother Machree" were flowing melodiously from everyone's lips. Sure, 'twas March 17, and every class was makin' ready for the annual program in honor of the great patron Saint of the Emerald Isle.

rallies . . .

ANOTHER evidence of Namers' talents were the weekly rallies. These marvels of dramatic ingenuity consisted of pep talks, song parodies, skits and a speech by a priest, all centered around a definite theme.

Each homeroom in turn received a chance to display its talents during the football and basketball seasons. Sometimes an ambitious class would spend a whole month in preparation, but usually a week of concentrated effort sufficed. Ingenious Namers exploited themes ranging from a kindergarten class to a mock football game, from a scene in a wax-works to an international broadcast.

All this time and effort were given eagerly by Namers to further H. N. spirit and promote local interest in good clean sports.

Typical of the fun - provoking rallies is Sister Jerome's, with smiling co - eds in the background and cavorting cheerleaders in the foreground.

Kay McDonnell, '48, Prom Queen

And the Prom!

PROM dreams began early for Holy Name Upperclassmen. With the first hint of longer days and warmer weather thoughts of fluffy formals, dreamy waltzes and fragrant flowers excited the imagination of every Junior and Senior girl.

Male minds cringed at thoughts of the stiff-collared tux and starched shirt, while still trying to decide who would be the "lucky girl."

Holy Name Auditorium took on the "New Look" as the willing hands of the Juniors created an atmosphere of fun and enjoyment in the tradition-filled hall.

As time ticked slowly by, last minute preparations were busied to completion. Final bids were made and the last ruffle stitched. After that the old clock really speeded up until at last everyone was saying, "I had a wonderful time at the '48 Junior-Senior Prom!"

H. N. 13, BENEDICTINE 6

The Big Green Machine started their pistons kicking by spotting the Blue and White, 13-6. Touchdowns were by Jim Loeser, on a Ferrante-Lanigan aerial, and Dick Buynak, on a block kick.

H. N. 18, MARSHALL 0

Bagging two big touchdowns before the Lawyers knew what happened, clinched the Green Wave's first Senate victory of the '47 season. Carl "Ike" Iappolo crossed the goal line first. Dick Buynak scored the second touchdown of the fray.

After several brilliant gallops by Ed Niec, Ike repeated his run of the first period, climaxing his "Touchdown Day."

West Tech player attempts to fall Gartland.

H. N. 37, IGNATIUS 7

Holy Name's Green Wave drenched the Saints with a 37-7 setback. Tony Fazio, Jim Gartland, Ed Niec, and Ike Iappolo scored the touchdowns, and Joe Ziccardi added a point to the score by placement.

H. N. 37, SOUTH 6

The South Flyers really sank into their cockpits when the Namers scored on touchdowns by Ike Iappolo, Tony Fazio, Jim Loeser, and Jim Gartland, respectively, with Joe Ziccardi putting two points between the uprights. The Pig Iron Trophy stayed home.

LINCOLN 21, H. N. 13

Abe Lincoln split our rails, despite two T. D.'s by Ed Niec, when a pass was intercepted by Slomka, who proceeded for a brilliant but heartbreaking run of 40 yards, to make the final score 21-13. Holy Name's first loss of the season.

H. N. 33, WEST 6

Namers roped the West Cowboys, 33-6, on T. D.'s by Jim Gartland, Niec, Fazio, and Trivison, and three points earned by Ziccardi's toe.

H. N. 6, WEST TECH 0

Holy Name, West Tech, and Rhodes were deadlocked for the West Senate crown when H. N. played West Tech, and a lone touchdown was all that the Big Green needed to club the Warriors. Tony Fazio made it.

RHODES 18, H. N. 6

Rhodes Rams bucked Little David out of any hopes of the Charity Game by their 12-point lead, ending Holy Name's 1947 season with six wins and only two losses.

Little Ripples make big splash!

Tense moment in a seventh-grade rally.

FATHER MORAN'S consistent drilling and hard work has paid off again this year as his midget squads continued in their winning ways. As head pigskin mentor for the grade school, Father lost only one game all year and his basketball squad won the city championship for the second straight year.

Weekly rallies, staged by the Junior High in the cafeteria for their team, kept the Graders' morale high.

Still news is the basketball season, which ended with Holy Name's smallest Green Wave battling with St. Vincent's for the city title. The first game ended with a 25-16 victory. The second was close, but the Ripple came through, and the second victory clinched the crown.

Frosh and J. V. Green Ripples

DESPITE the sad fate of scrimmaging the Varsity every night, while playing a full schedule of their own, the Junior Varsity eleven came through with five victories and one defeat before their season was called off.

Sparked by the brilliant play of Captain Zowie, the Freshman squad of 30 members showed true Holy Name fight as it wound up a tough schedule with two wins and four losses.

Here they are — Newburgh's finest!

DIRECTOR JACK T. HEARNS

BELIEVING that "practice makes perfect," Holy Name Band members faithfully attended sessions twice a week during the school year. The coming of summer did not alleviate their toil, either, for even then a weekly drill claimed their presence. That such application was worthwhile was proved by the annual band concert. A feature attraction at every Green Wave football game, the Kelly-green clad, snappy HN musicians allowed neither rain, snow, slush nor mud to deter them from backing the team. At every major parade in the city, too, their fine precision marching and stirring music won ample praise.

Faithful, capable, reliable, these adjectives aptly describe the pride of Holy Name, the Band.

PERFECTON is everyone's aim, especially is it that of Mr. Hearns, director of Holy Name's Band.

For 15 years he had labored patiently teaching new instruments, practicing various music selections and putting the Band through its marching paces.

Not only has Mr. Hearns given his time to local harmonizers but he also directs the musicians of six friendly rivals.

Morale Boys

LEST we overlook the cheerleaders we now gratefully mention our beloved noise boys. Led by Jim Pehotsky (center), veteran of 365 scream-filled quarters and composer of countless original vociferations, the boys have mouthed their way into the very souls of everyone who ever watched an HN team chew up a gridiron or tear down a gymnasium.

Good Samaritans

A salute to the Managers!

". . . But when yer in the slaughter,
You'll do yer work on water,
An' lick the bloomin' boots
On 'im wots got it!"

When the immortal pen of Rudyard Kipling scratched those words he was obviously thinking of Holy Name's managers, the Gunga Dins of Sports.

Quiet, unassuming, they rarely take the limelight, and can be seen in action only when they're busy sloshing a damp towel against a panting player's perspiring face.

"Who in their right mind," you ask, "would take such a thankless job?"

Coach

Danny Mormile

AFTER one brilliant year as head coach, Danny Mormile left Holy Name in February to work with the Carroll Blue Streaks. Namers wished him every success and promised to label one particular victory next fall "for Danny."

In September, the spirit of Holy Name and the luck of the Irish will be behind a new man, Ed Heglaw. (No picture was available as the Namer went to press.) Mr. Heglaw resigned a head coach post at Ashtabula High to supervise the future grid warfare of the Green Wave. Mr. Heglaw has quite a reputation to back up his coaching ability. When in high school himself at Euclid Shore, he was an All Eastern Conference end, and later was grid captain at the Heidelberg University.

Discharged from Navy duty three years ago, Mr. Heglaw took over as assistant coach at St. Ignatius, and almost copped the city title. In 1946 he left for Ashtabula Harbor, where he was given the head coaching position. Holy Name welcomes Mr. Heglaw, and wishes him a fine roster of victories.

THE CROWD

CLEVELAND papers called it the Game of the Decade, and asserted it made Danny Mormile Coach of the Year, when Little David walloped the Latin Lions right out of the State Championship by defeating them, 14-7, before some 18,000 wide-eyed spectators at the Municipal Stadium, October 17.

To the heroes, Jim Gartland and Ed Niec, who scored the touchdowns, and to the rest of the team, it was without a doubt the happiest night of their lives. All Newburgh went wild with joy. Because of this one victory, '47 could be marked down as one of the most successful seasons in Holy Name history.

H. N. basketball revived in '48

Coach Ed Moderick

THOUGH most of us have known him only a short time he has already earned a revered place in our hearts.

He came to us at a time when we were in need of a leader and proved that he possessed all the spirit and earnestness of a true Namer. We also found that he could be a warm friend and a fine teacher.

It was with Ed's help that Mr. Mormile was able to turn out an indestructible front wall for our football team. Yet he claimed basketball was his game, and then went about passing the test as head basketball coach with a hard-earned high 90.

We're placing the future of our hardwood squads in your hands, Mr. Moderick, and it is with real spirit and confidence that we say, Good luck!

Future looks bright for cagers

ALTHOUGH Big Green basketball did not emerge as a tremendous tidal wave, it did grow steadily stronger under the expert guidance of Coach Ed Moderick, who in his short tenure here won the hearts of all Namers.

As the season progressed Little David piled up three Senate victories and four defeats. Though the boys lacked some important factors necessary in the make-up of a crack team, particularly height, experience, and backboard control, groundwork was laid this year for one of the most successful basketball seasons this school has seen for many a day.

Neglected heroes

"Strike three! You're out!"

And so the Big Green's forgotten Wave has won another ball game. Where are the cheers? Where are the pats on the back? Where are the Holy Name rooters? Of the entire student body, about 85% know Holy Name has a baseball team, and of those only four or five per cent bother to go out to watch them.

Holy Name's baseball team has won more championships than any other local athletic team. They have always ended in second or third place or better.

Coached by Frank R. Riessinger Jr., himself a pro player in big leagues for years, sparked by such players as Bill Bican, Bill Wilde, Ed Majowski, Ed Niec, Ray Lavelle, Bob Poutz, Joe Ledinski, Jerry Jeanguenat, Cassy Kowtowski, Don Fleck, and John Miller, the Namers' baseball team should continue to stand high in the league.

Let's have a big cheer for the Big Green's forgotten Wave, the best baseball Nine in Newburgh!

and pulverized ones!

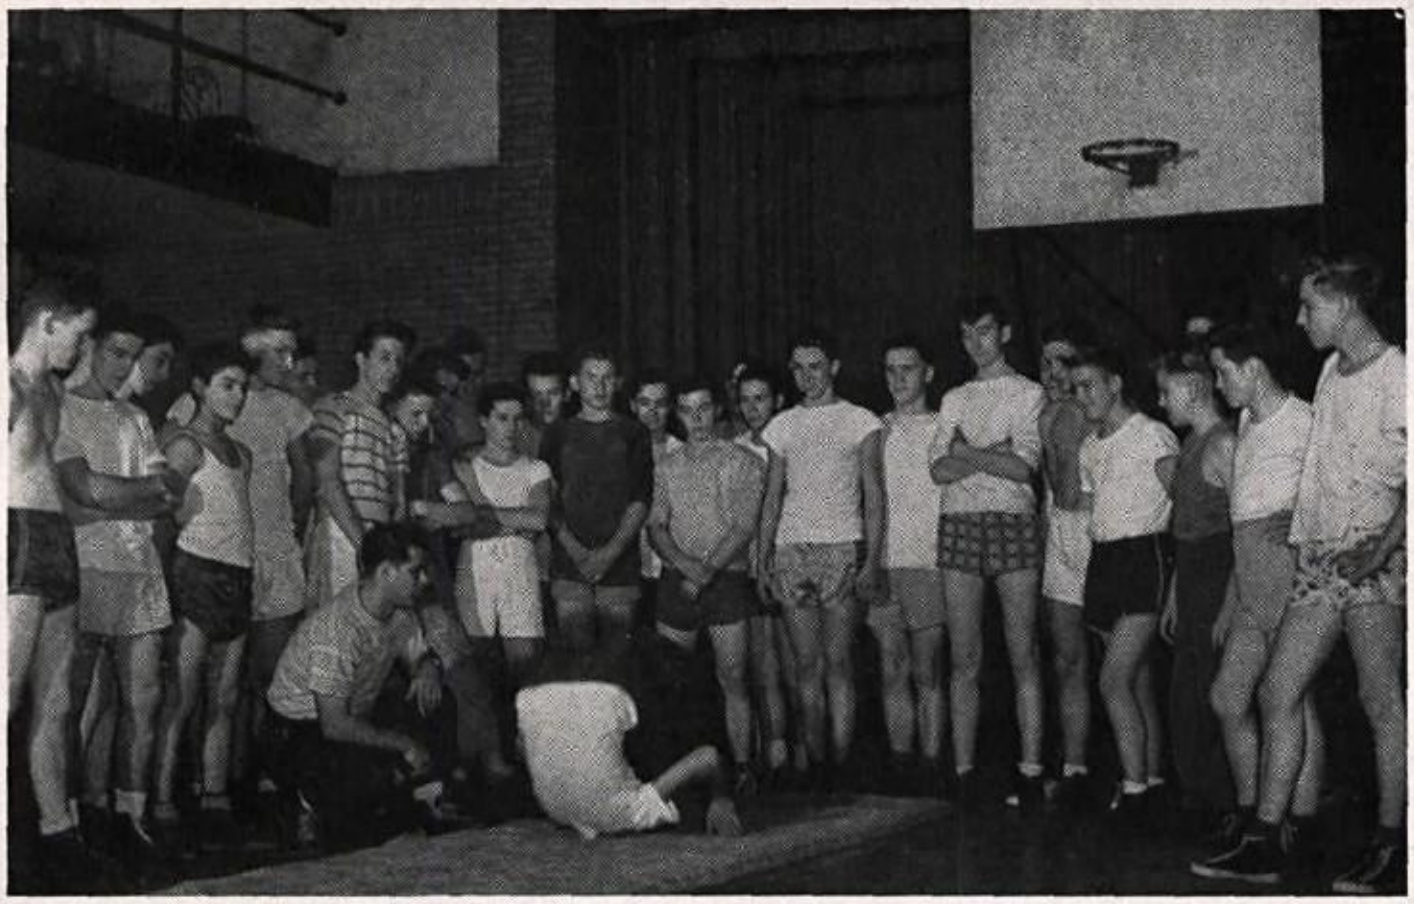
For the fourth time in as many years, the blood-caked canvas ring was dragged to the center of Holy Name's Gym, slapped shakily together, and dusted for the coming hit and run season.

Again stars like Rubber-Jaws Pehotsky, Ham-Hands Murray, Head'n a Half Hearns, Mad-Dog McNeela, Humphrey Roth, and Chimpanzee-Chest Chadwick thrilled the hordes of punch-hungry fans with their tricky footwork, elusive jabbing, and all around sportsmanship in unforgettable classics that had the mob frothing for more.

Boxing continued in '48, as in previous years, to be the biggest participant sport ever to pummel its way into the hearts of Holy Namers. The kids loved it.

In years hence, students may forget the gay times they had during the annual class Christmas parties, and they'd probably have a hard time recalling what kind of mark they got in Senior English. But never will the memory of the tight knot that strained at their stomach muscles as they tripped nervously up the three steps leading into the ring, fade from their medulla oblongata.



How to "take a tumble" is well illustrated under the direction of Mr. Steve Polachek in fifth period gymnastics.

Building sturdy bodies

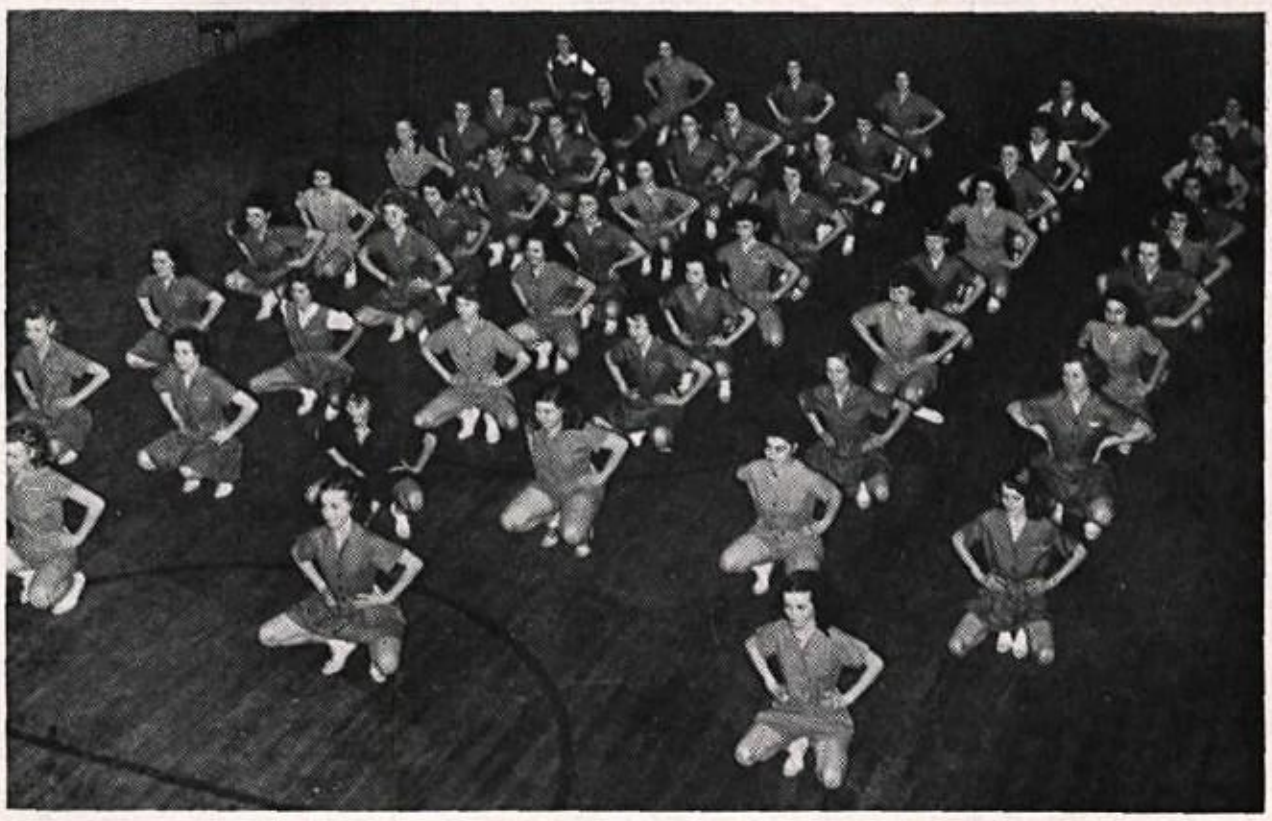
Run the 300-yard dash, 18 situps, 15 pushups, 5-foot standing broad jump, 10-foot running broad jump . . . That, my dear readers, was the test the boys had to take in '48 to get a credit in physical education.

Under Mr. Steve Polachek, professor of P. E., calisthenics was not the only athletic pursuit of the boys, however. They became experts in basketball, boxing, Judo and football, because of the able coaching they got in their two 45-minute periods each week.

Besides their regular schedule of calisthenics, the girls, tutored by Miss Eileen O'Leary, had volleyball, baseball, basketball, tumbling, and a taste of folk dancing and activity games.

Boys and girls alike are loud in expressing the wish that the stay of both Mr. Polachek and Miss O'Leary at Holy Name will be a long and happy one.



"One-two-three-four, up-down, up-down!" shouts Miss Eileen O'Leary, instructor of girls' gym classes, and seried rows of damsels in green obey her.

Our Catholic Faith, Peter:

It centered our school life in enduring values.

We worked for 'Fields Afar'

HEEDING the urgent need of extending Christ's kingdom to pagan lands, an active Mission Unit was in existence at Holy Name. The people of foreign lands, scourged by war, homeless and hungry, were desperately in need of material help. Their eyes were turned toward the only country that could help them, America.

Mission banners, denoting 100% contribution to the Society for the Propagation of the Faith, graced the walls of all homerooms in both Carroll and Gallagher buildings.

The students were also subscribers to the "Lotus Leaves," a quarterly magazine published by the Sisters of Charity for their Chinese Missions.

Each homeroom had its own Mission leader, who injected vim and vitality into the other students. Sacrifices during Lent and throughout the rest of the year, bingo games and amateur hours, all helped to swell Mission funds to assuage the sufferings of sick, emaciated bodies, and bring the Word of Christ to starving souls.

We imitated Mother Seton

DEDICATING themselves to furthering the work of Mother Seton, 60 girls enthusiastically worked and played in the Mother Seton League. Holy Name's Unit of the League dated back to 1944, and was one of the most active organizations on the campus.

Corporal works of mercy were eagerly performed by the members during free time, outside of school hours. Caroling at hospitals, promoting dances for the old folks at St. Joseph's Home for the Aged, sewing baby clothes and caring for the children at St. Ann's on Saturdays are examples of their charitable works.

Chief project of the year was the Tableau presented in March, with Margaret Lancer in the leading role. Scenes depicted Mother Seton's colorful life as schoolgirl, belle, wife, mother, and first American Nun.

The League girls, under the direction of Sister Mary Robert, through their imitation of Mother Seton, developed a deeper love of Christ, not only in themselves, but also in all who came in contact with them.

Four smiling co-eds are these Mother Seton officers: seated, Norma Malinowski, secretary; Margaret Lancer, president; standing, Charlotte Camille, vice president; Nancy O'Malley, treasurer.

Religion vivified

RELIGION at Holy Name did not confine itself to religion courses only, but permeated all classes, social activities, and extra-curricular affairs. Even the hilarious weekly rallies frequently were climaxed with an appeal to Our Lady.

Literature classes learned to weigh reading matter, evaluate best sellers and detect propaganda. Latin led to a plumbing of the riches of the Liturgy, and science courses pointed to God as the First Cause.

everything we did

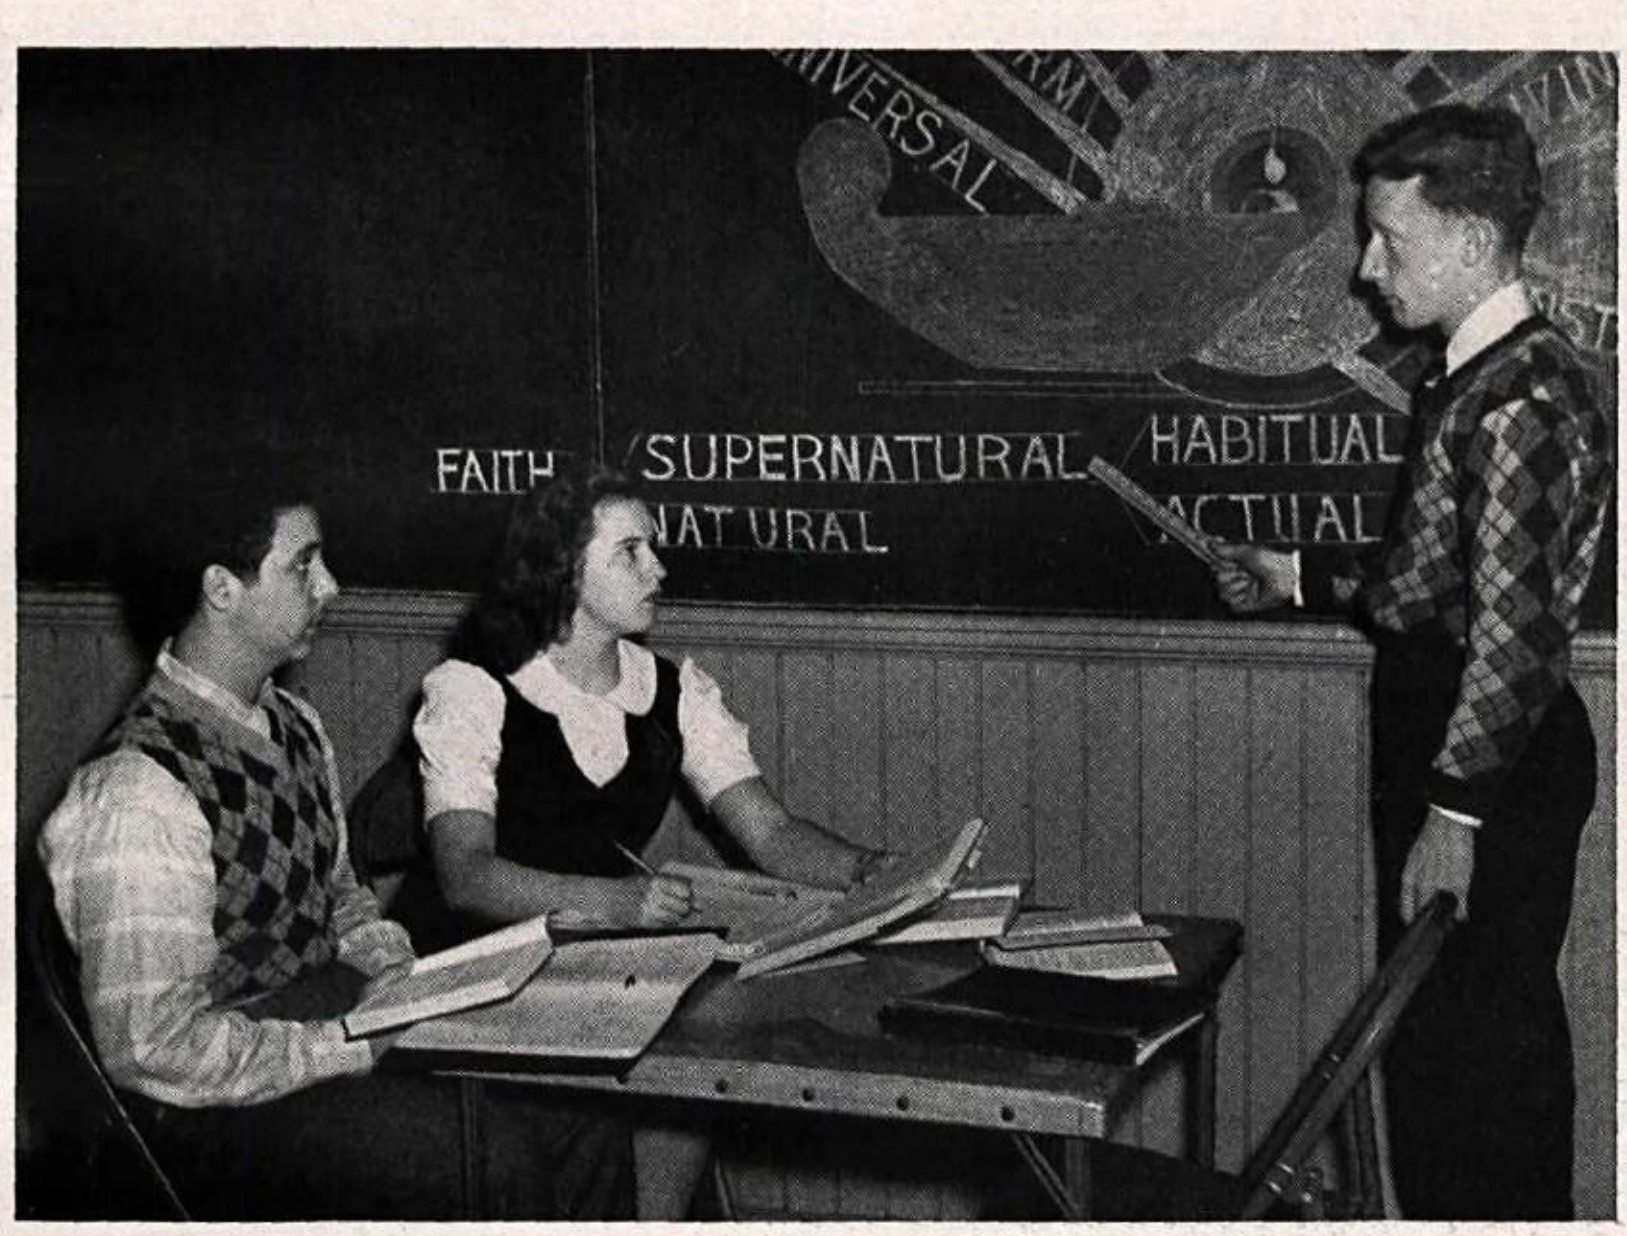
From merry-making stopped momentarily for a hymn to Our Blessed Lady, glee clubs and other music groups always included some sacred songs together with such popular favorites as "Smoke Gets in Your Eyes" or "Let the Rest of the World Go By."

Grid players knelt for a Hail Mary during games; basketball players, unashamed, blessed themselves before trying for a foul shot.

Yes, Holy Namers really lived their religion.

"Time out!" is taken in Sister Mary Bernice's fast-moving rally, for a tribute to Mary, and Our Lady heard our prayers, for after this dedication victory was ours in the Holy Name-West High game.



Joseph Schmidt apparently enjoys his rare chance to be teacher of Raymond Hankish and Mary Louise Obloj, in Sister Annina's religion class.

In thy dear Hands, O Mary,

we leave the Namer of '48

CHARACTERISTICALLY, Peter, we began our book, The Namer of 1948, by dedicating it to our Mother of Perpetual Help.

Likewise typical of Holy Name is this last picture, where students kneel before the image of Our Mother of Perpetual Help during their lunch hour . . .

Passing years made many changes in Holy Name. Generation succeeded generation, and Namers' children came back to the school on Broadway. Each decade found new activities, new studies, new books, and new teachers. But the tender devotion of early days to Our Lady of Perpetual Help never waned. Namers in '98 still turn to her for answers to all problems, just as we did.

Student petitions for help and blessings have ascended from Holy Name to Our Lady's heart in a never-ending stream. Thanksgivings were breathed by the hundreds, too, but as we closed our book we made a general "Thank You!" for the few who, through the past years, might have forgotten.

"Thank you, O Mother of Perpetual Help, for your motherly care and guidance. Thank you, O Sweet Lady, for keeping Holy Name and Namers yours in a special way."

"Listening to the radio and eating waffles are my favorite pastimes," exclaims Anthony Zepp, current editor of the Name. "I like blue, and I like Latin," adds Tony, whose ambition in life is to gain a higher Catholic education and to eat some more waffles.

104C and Our Lady of Good Counsel claim Jim Loeser, grid star. This Senior, whose favorite food is T-bone steak, states: "Holy Name is the best school in the city. No matter what it partakes in, it is always on top." To be a doctor is Jim's ambition and humming "That's My Desire" his favorite pastime.

"H. N. has been my Alma Mater for 12 years and I'm sure there isn't a better one in Cleveland, or the world!" That's the opinion of Senior Joe McMahon, 102C, whose average for the four years of high school is highest among the Seniors this year. Latin and English are tops with Joe, who also likes pork chops.

As you walk through the halls of the Gallagher Building you will probably hear the joyful strains of "Toodle Doodle" issuing from the mouth of Coletta Strnad, 103 Freshman. This talented underclasswoman, aside from sewing, must love to get ads, since she totaled $100 in small ads for the Namer.

Hailing from West Side's St. Colman Parish is Junior Dolores Danko, whose ambition is to be a secretary or teacher. Her favorite dish is potato salad and she spends most of her free time roller skating. Her opinion of Holy Name is, "Best in the city."

"I'd like to be a doctor," avers Freshie Jeanne Cecil, breaking through a chorus of "Peg O' My Heart" to answer the question of her ambition. "I wonder if doctors eat rice pudding?" says Jeanne, "because that is what I like most in the way of food."

"Besides buying and collecting good records, I like a sharp game of golf!" admits Business Manager Vince Balogh. Journalism and public speaking are ace-high with Vince, who spends most of his spare time trying to develop his game (?) of golf and drinking chocolate malts.

Both in the seventh grade, and both full of vim, vigor, and vitality. That's the viewpoint of all Namers remarking on the wonderful salesmanship of Patricia Ann Vano and June Szabo, Junior highers from 203G. "Mamzelle" and the "Dickey Bird Song" are favorites with these handy girls, who worked together as a team in getting their ad total over the $100 mark in ads.

Patricia Ann Joyce's favorite hobby is going on bird walks. A Senior, she took a Scientific Course and held English as her favorite subject. Tiny Pat's color is that of azure blue. "It goes wth my eyes," she says.

"Give me a hamburg and a coke and a typewriter, and I'll be contented," smiles Irene Grau, Senior, whose ambition is to be, of all things, a typist. "I just love to type, but besides that, dancing is my favorite pastime."

A GIRL CAN BE PROUD

...when she earns her high school diploma

And she should be proud when she takes her place as a wage-earner.

"Telephone Girl" is a proud title in business . . . whether it's operator, stenographer or clerk. The telephone girl does interesting, useful work which is important to everybody.

She can take pride in her paycheck which grows steadily, adding six raises the first 18 months. She can be proud of her business home and the friendly girls with whom she works. Thorough training gives her confidence and good performance earns her promotion.

YOU, too, can be pleased and proud with a telephone job

Why a Liberal Arts Educatian?

A liberal arts education offers to the student who desires to continue his or her education in college the finest training for all fields of endeavor.

The liberal arts college's program of courses are ideal for those intending to enter the business, government, teaching, social service, and like fields. For those who want to go on through a professional school in law, medicine, and engineering they will find that the liberal arts college leads naturally into these schools, which require pre-professional studies as given by this type of college.

Too, the liberal arts college endeavors to give the student a well-rounded and well-accented education in all the major fields of human interest which will stand the student in good stead in his life in general.

Congratulations

to the yearbook staff

for preserving a pictorial record of the school year. We are proud of having played a part in the production of this yearbook and know that you and your alumni will cherish the many memories it retains.

You are to be complimented for your initiative and enthusiasm which has played such an important part in its production. Pontiac craftsmen have tried sincerely to crown your efforts with success by rendering service and quality in the production of the photo-engravings in this book.
